If you have ever experienced an injury to bare feet when nails on your deck are protruding you will know it is a painful problem...!

The cause of this is when you are nailing a decking board into your joist you create a small split in the joist. This small split allows water to penetrate the timber and then begins to rot the timber causing it to split further and allow more moisture in. Eventually the nail is no longer held by the timber and the decking begins to lift. The result is nails rising above the decking and timber. To fix this problem you can punch back the nails which will be a job ongoing for the life of the deck, not a very satisfactory solution. Or you can eliminate this problem all together by laying a nailless deck using the Deckmaster system. The Deckmaster system also comes with a joist strip to further protect your joist from moisture.

Prawn and Keg Afternoon...

Last month we held a "Prawn and Keg" trade afternoon. All the Prawns were eaten and all the Kegs were drunk (as well as a few slabs of beer we had just in case)

Those who attended saw a demonstration of the Deckmaster System as well as Retracom (Solaris Roofing) and CSR were there to demonstrate their products.

All in all, the day was a huge success with a lot of positive response to the products.

We intend on having more regular trade days here at Moorooka so WATCH THIS SPACE FOR DATES

Here at Wilson Timbers we love new and innovative ideas and products that save time, money and equally as important look awesome...!

Our stand at the recent Home Show attracted a lot of interest in Deckmaster Top Nailless Deck Fixing System and it is selling like Hot Cakes.

A lot of builders have embraced the system and are amazed to see how easy and fast it can be installed and the finish is perfect.

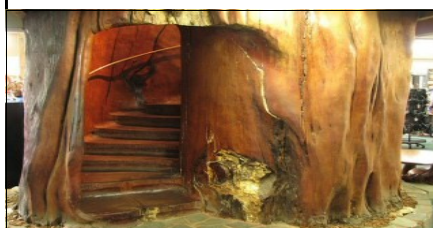

If you would like to see a demonstration of how this system works go to www.deckmaster.com.au

We have been around a long time now and the commitment we make to our customers today has not wavered. Since back in the 50's
